INTRODUCTION

Creation of basic infrastructure is essential for the growth of the country. The growth of the society in a country depends upon the creation of large tangible assets and creation of large tangible assets base is imperative for the growth of business. The problems today is that once some infrastructure facilities needed and created priorities of decision makers shifts to operational needs and unintentionally the valuable facilitates, that result in crises situations sooner than planned, & the sufferer is the end user.

Balanced growth approach in any developing country like India is the best way to achieve the targets. The decision makers should possess responsibility for the rapid development off core sectors. Development of the basic infrastructure facilities like, Shelters, Road, Power, and Water are the pre-requisite for the fastest and smoothest progress of the country. The basic need of the common men is of Roti, Kapda and Makaan and after having all these every basic need he than think for other hierarchy like development of roads, Society and of course the country. Development and construction of roads makes the communication easier from one end to other. The construction activity in the present scenario includes lot of investment in housing, roads, and bridges, power sector, ports and harbours and the urban infrastructure sector. While the main activity in this regard, is taking place at the level of central/state govt. municipal level authorities. Another important avenue in which construction activity has substantial role to play is the MES (Military Engineer Services). As per the estimate submitted by CIDC there are 43 different projects of national highway under preparation on. In addition there are projects like Golden Quadriateral (Delhi, Calcutta, Chennai and Mumbai measuring 5952 kms.) For which substantial funds are being allocated. These projects are also funded by loans from Asian Development Bank and World Bank etc. The following functions have their role to play at various stages of the project:

1. The project developer/ Authority/ builder/ the organization bringing out the project.
2. Main contractor.
3. Sub-Contractor.

Keeping in view of the above scenario the decision maker in India keep the following strategy in their mind.

- Development of land and construction of living hood.
- Development of roads.
- Improvement and strengthening of the existing one infrastructure.
